

CORRECTION

“TICKS AND TICK-BORNE PATHOGENS FROM WILDLIFE IN THE FREE STATE PROVINCE, SOUTH AFRICA” by Tonetti et al., Journal of Wildlife Diseases 45(2): 247–259. The tick identified as Rhipicephalus appendiculatus has upon re-examination been identified as Rhipicephalus warburtoni.

Editor’s clarification in reference to: Work, T., 2007, Book review of “Seeking the Sacred Raven by M.J. Walters”, 43: 562–564.

As a general policy, JWD does not publish rebuttals to book reviews. However, the editors seek impartiality and objectivity on the part of book reviewers, including disclosure of any potential conflicts of interest. In the case of JWD 43: 562–564, the book’s author recently brought to the attention of the editors that the reviewer’s work had been critically discussed in the book, thus revealing a potential conflict of interest for the reviewer. The editors regret the failure to disclose this potential conflict.