

in the years following the uprising of 1924.

The part played by Carlos Prestes has been accentuated in the past by the leftist press. This present study offsets that bent and helps to fill a need for more adequate coverage of this revolutionary period.

DAVID H. STAUFFER
University of Texas

No teatro do Mediterraneo. Diario de um observador militar 1943-1944. Rio de Janeiro, 1953. Graf. Laemmert. Biblioteca do exercito, 185. Illustrations. Map. Pp. 155.

Noticias e anúncios de jornal. By AMARO QUINTAS. Recife, 1953? Prefeitura Municipal. Departamento de Documentação e Cultura. Illustrations. Pp. 27. Paper.

Illustrations of the value of newspaper announcements for the social history of Pernambuco, with a preface by Gilberto Freyre. (L. H.)

O padre Leonel Franca, S. J. By LUIZ GONZAGA DA SILVEIRA D'ELBOUX, S. J. Rio de Janeiro, 1953. Livraria Agr. Pp. 537. 120 cruzeiros.

Raizes ou causas históricas do panamericanismo. By HILDEBRANDO ACIOLY. Rio de Janeiro, 1953. Departamento da Imprensa Nacional. Bibliography. Pp. 77.

Draws heavily on standard diplomatic histories discussing this hemisphere (Bemis, Perkins, etc.). Includes brief chapters on the roles of both the United States and Brazil at the first Pan American Conference. (J. F.)

CHILE

Chilenos en California. By ENRIQUE BUNSTER. Santiago, 1954. Editorial del Pacifico. Pp. 167. Paper. 210 pesos.

A collection of popular essays dealing with topics in the cultural history of Chile in the nineteenth century. Of special interest to readers of this review, in addition to the title essay, are those dealing with the beginnings of coal, telegraphs, copper mining, and steamships. Though it does not pretend to be original research, this book contains a great deal of interesting and entertaining material.

CHARLES C. GRIFFIN
Vassar College

Diego Barros Arana. By CARLOS ORREGO BARROS. Santiago, 1952. Universidad de Chile. Pp. 277.

Freire, liberator de Chiloé. By MANUEL REYNO GUTIÉRREZ. Santiago, 1952. Zig-Zag. Colección Biografías. Pp. 266.

COLOMBIA

El arzobispo Mosquera, 1800-1853: líneas biográficas. By BENJAMÍN IRAGORRI DIEZ. Bogotá, 1953. Universidad Nacional de Colombia. Illustrations. Pp. 97. Paper.

A short biographical sketch of Colombia's most outstanding nineteenth century prelate, Manuel José de Mosquera. The author had access to unpublished documents of importance, some of which he has reproduced. The archbishop's political role in the Church-State struggle of 1851-1852, which resulted in his exile and death in France, is defended here.

J. LEON HELGUERA
University of North Carolina

Biografía de José María Córdoba. By GABRIEL PORRAS TROCONÍS. Bogotá, 1952. Ministerio de Educación Nacional. Biblioteca de Autores Colombianos. Pp. 318.

Desarrollo agrícola de Colombia, 1940-1952. Bogotá, 1953. Ministerio de Agricultura. Graphs. Tables. Pp. 28.

Viajes por Antioquia en el año de 1880. By FRIEDERICH VON SCHENCK. Translated by ERNESTO GUHL. Introduction by EDUARDO SANTOS RUBIO. Bogotá, 1953. Imprenta del Banco de la República. Archivo de la Economía Nacional, IX. Maps. Pp. 76. Paper.

Printed for the first time in Spanish, the German geographer's pungent de-