An Epigram falsely ascribed to George Herbert.

—The recent editors of George Herbert have printed as his, among his Latin poems, the last two lines of the 76th epigram of Martial's eighth book:

"Vero verius ergo quid sit, audi:
Verum, Gallice, non libenter audis."

J. E. B. Mayor.

Ingulph: J. Bohn's "Antiquarian Library."—Will you kindly allow me to avail myself of your columns to correct an error in my translation of "Ingulph," in J. Bohn's Antiquarian Library? In the note to page 2, the Abbey of Bardney, in Lincolnshire, is confounded with Partney, which was one of its cells. The mistake was not observed till, unfortunately, the sheet had been printed; and it was accidentally omitted among the errata. My authority had, I rather think, been misled by Camden.

Quotations wanted.

"The knights are dust,
Their good swords are rust,
Their souls are with the saints, we trust."

C. M. O'Cadmn.

"Circles are prized, not that abound
In greatness, but the exactly round.
Thus men are honoured, who excel,
Not in high state, but doing well."

G. C. H.

"Ill habits gather by unseen degrees,
As brooks to rivers, rivers run to seas."

"The clanging trumpet sounds to arms,
And calls me forth to battle;
Our banners float 'midst war's alarms,
The signal cannons rattle."
