

Acknowledgments

This book originated in e-mail conversations between Pamela and Diana in 1998. Since then, many individuals and institutions have provided support. Most important, we would like to thank the contributors for their hard work, their timeliness in submitting and revising chapters, and their patience with the production process. Several of them also read and provided important comments on the introduction and bibliographic essay.

Versions of the introduction were given as papers at Warwick University, Newcastle University, the Women's History Seminar at the Institute for Historical Research, and the University of London. We would like to thank the audiences at those occasions, as well as the audience and participants at our round table at the Berkshire Women's History Conference in 2002, "Gendering the History of Slave Emancipation," for their encouraging and helpful feedback. Denison University, Queens' College, Oxford, and Newcastle University provided research support. Pamela completed this project at Emory University and would like to thank her colleagues for welcoming her so warmly to Atlanta. We extend our thanks to Frederick Cooper, Laura Edwards, Gad Heuman, Jocelyn Olcott, Robert Ross, Rebecca Scott, Mrinalini Sinha, Mary Turner, Kerry Ward, and Nigel Worden for their ongoing interest in our work. Kate Chedgzoy and Clifton Crais read the introduction at several critical moments. We thank them for their insightful comments as well as their support throughout the project. At Duke University Press, we have been fortunate to work with Valerie Millholland. We thank her, Miriam Angress, and the anonymous readers for the press, who helped us make this a better book. Woody Hickcox did the maps.

We dedicate this volume to Pamela's father, Larry Scully, and to Diana's grandmother, Polly Epstein, who both died while we were working on this project.
