

Contributors

NALUWEMBE BINAISA is an interdisciplinary scholar and creative practitioner researching mobilities, belonging, and identities within Africa and her diaspora. She has conducted research for leading institutions, including the University of Oxford, University College London, and the Max Planck Institute for the Study of Religious and Ethnic Diversity. She is a 2021 recipient of a Writing Our Legacy/ Shifting the Gaze bursary for her project Sacred Trees Sacred Landscapes.

VINDHYA BUTHPITIYA is an anthropologist by training, and has more than a decade of research and policy experience in the international development sector in Sri Lanka. She is lecturer in social anthropology at the University of St Andrews.

KONSTANTINOS KALANTZIS is an assistant professor of anthropology at the University of Thessaly. He is the author of Tradition in the Frame: Photography, Power, and Imagination in Sfakia, Crete (2019) and the director of the ethnographic films Dowsing the Past (2014) and The Impossible Narration (2021). He has published extensively on the intersections of visual culture and the political imagination in Greece.

CHRISTOPHER PINNEY is a professor of anthropology and visual culture at University College London and has published a number of books on the visual culture of India. He was a coeditor of Photography's Other Histories (Duke University Press, 2003).

ILEANA L. SELEJAN is a lecturer in art history, culture and society at the University of Edinburgh. She was previously a research fellow with the Decolonising Arts Institute at the University of the Arts London, a research associate in the Department of Anthropology at University College London, and the Linda Wyatt Gruber '66 Curatorial Fellow in Photography at the Davis Museum at Wellesley College.

SOKPHEA YOUNG obtained his PhD from the University of Melbourne, Australia, and is currently an honorary research fellow at University College London. He is the author of Strategies of Authoritarian Survival and Dissensus in Southeast Asia: Weak Men versus Strongmen (2021).