McGill University is Canada's leading research-intensive university and is located in the heart of Montreal, one of the multi-cultural metropolitan cities in North America. The faculty provides a supportive research environment and offers M.B.A., Master, Ph.D., and Undergraduate degree programs. At McGill, research that reflects diverse intellectual traditions, methodologies, and modes of dissemination and translation is valued and encouraged. Candidates are invited to demonstrate their research impact both within and across academic disciplines and in other sectors, such as government, communities, or industry. McGill further recognizes and fairly considers the impact of leaves (e.g., family care or health-related) that may contribute to career interruptions or slowdowns. Candidates are encouraged to signal any leave that affected productivity, or that may have had an effect on their career path. This information will be considered to ensure the equitable assessment of the candidate's record. McGill University is committed to equity and diversity within its community, and values academic rigour and excellence. We welcome and encourage applications from racialized persons/visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, as well as from all qualified candidates who possess the skills and knowledge to engage productively with diverse communities. McGill implements an employment equity program and encourages members of designated equity groups to self-identify. It further seeks to ensure the equitable treatment and full inclusion of persons with disabilities by striving for the implementation of universal design principles transversally, across all facets of the University community, and through accommodation policies and procedures (<https://www.mcgill.ca/hr/benefits/disabilities>). Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application process may contact, in confidence, via email, accessibilityrequest.hr@mcgill.ca, or phone at (514) 398-2477. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

UNIVERSITY OF DAYTON, Department of Accounting invites applications for one non-tenure track position at the rank of Lecturer beginning August 16, 2020. To apply, go to: <https://employment.udayton.edu/cw/en-us/job/497796/lecturer-in-accounting>. Applications must be received by February 24, 2020. At the University of Dayton, we are looking for new faculty whose passion aligns with our mission of educating the whole person. The Department of Accounting focuses on the exploration and implementation of innovative teaching approaches, shaping the next generation of accountants, and engaging in impactful service opportunities. Our faculty provide high-quality teaching and a personal touch for students to develop their skills as lifelong learners. Candidates must possess the demonstrated ability to teach upper-level undergraduate and graduate accounting courses and be qualified to teach in multiple areas. A bachelor's degree in accounting from an AACSB (or equivalent) university or 27 hours of university course work in accounting, professional certification (e.g. CPA, CMA), and professional experience sufficient to maintain Instructional Practitioner (IP) status under the AACSB standards are required (e.g. the professional experience is current, substantial in terms of duration, complexity and level of responsibility, and clearly linked to the field(s) in which the person is expected to teach). Effective writing skills are also required. Preference will be given to candidates with a master's degree in accounting and/or a related business field and expertise in managerial/cost and/or financial accounting. Effective verbal communication and interpersonal skills and working knowledge to support ongoing curriculum modifications related to data analytics and technological agility are preferred. We prefer candidates who have experience mentoring students and/or staff from diverse backgrounds. Demonstrated collegiality and ability to work collaboratively are essential to working with constituents across campus (i.e., faculty, staff, students, and administration). A commitment to breadth of education including the whole person in the Marianist tradition, and a commitment of service to the community, University, and profession are highly preferred. Informed by its Catholic and Marianist mission, the University is committed to the principles of diversity, equity, and inclusion. Informed by this commitment, we seek to increase diversity, achieve equitable outcomes, and model inclusion across our campus community. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer, we will not discriminate against minorities, women, protected veterans, individuals with disabilities, or on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation or gender identity.
