1997 ASCN Award Winners

The ASCN presented its annual awards at the 37th Annual Meeting in Montreal, July 24-26, 1997. Award winners were William Evans Mitch, MD, Emory University, Robert H Herman Memorial Award in Clinical Nutrition; Kenneth H Brown, MD, University of California, Davis, McCollum Award; Charles H Halsted, MD, University of California, Davis, National Dairy Council Award for Excellence in Medical/Dental Nutrition Education; and Kathryn G Dewey, PhD, University of California, Davis, Norman Kretchmer Memorial Award in Nutrition and Development. The papers presented at the meeting will be published in the AJCN.

1998 ASCN Award Nominations Invited

The ASCN is soliciting nominations for the annual awards to be presented at the 38th Annual Meeting in San Francisco, April 18-22, 1998. Nominees need not be members of the Society, and nominations may be made by anyone. The Robert H Herman Memorial Award in Clinical Nutrition is given to a clinical investigator whose research has contributed significantly to the advancement of clinical nutrition in the biochemical and metabolic aspects of human nutrition. A cash award and inscribed plaque are provided by the Robert H Herman Memorial Fund established by the Society and Mrs Yaye Herman.

The McCollum Award is given to a clinical investigator who is perceived as a current, major, creative force who actively generates new concepts in nutrition and sees to the execution of testing to validate these concepts. A cash award and inscribed plaque are provided.

The Award for Excellence in Medical/Dental Nutrition Education is presented in recognition of an outstanding career in medical or dental nutrition education. The nominee’s efforts should be recognized nationally or internationally. Nomination depends on acknowledged excellence in nutrition teaching or nutrition education research that extends beyond the local institution and includes innovations in medical/dental nutrition education. A cash award and inscribed plaque are provided.

The Norman Kretchmer Memorial Award in Nutrition and Development is given to a young investigator who will be 45 y old or younger at the time the award is presented for a substantial body of independent research in the field of nutrition and development with potential relevance to improving child health. A cash award and inscribed medal are provided by the Ross Products Division, Abbott Laboratories. This award was first presented at the ASCN 37th Annual Meeting.

Nominations must be received by November 14, 1997. Contact ASCN Secretariat, 9650 Rockville Pike, Bethesda, MD 20814-3998. (301) 530-7110. E-mail: secretar@ascn.faseb.org.

Dwyer Assumes New Post

ASCN member Johanna Dwyer, DSc, RD, will become the editor of Nutrition Today effective with the January/February 1998 issue. Dwyer follows Helen Guthrie, PhD, RD, who is retiring.

“Nutrition Today is a unique forum for communicating and interpreting nutrition science and policy,” said Dwyer. “This is a tremendous opportunity for me to help enhance the civic, cultural, and scientific nutritional literacy of professionals, thereby fostering improved health and a better quality of life.”

Dwyer is past President of the American Institute of Nutrition (now the American Society for Nutritional Sciences), past Secretary of the ASCN, and past President and current Fellow of the Society for Nutrition Education.
