

Cover

A selection of organophosphorus molecules. Image reproduced by permission of Dr David Loakes.

Preface*v

David Allen, David Loakes, Lee Higham and John Tebby

Tertiary phosphines: preparation and reactivity*1

E. I. Musina, A. V. Shamsieva, A. S. Balueva and A. A. Karasik

1 Introduction	1
2 Preparation of phosphines	1
3 Reactivity of phosphines	39
References	51

Phosphine chalcogenides*64

G. Keglevich

References	105
------------	-----

Tervalent phosphorus acid derivatives*110

Mariette M. Pereira, Rui M. B. Carrilho, Sara M. A. Pinto and Mário J. F. Calvete

1 Introduction	110
2 Tervalent phosphorus amides	110
3 Tervalent phosphorus esters	123

4 Mixed phosphorus(III) compounds	143
References	143
<hr/>
Phosponium salts and P-ylides	148
Maurizio Selva, Alvise Perosa and Giulia Fiorani
1 Introduction	148
2 Phosponium salts	148
3 Phosponium based ionic liquids (PILs)	160
4 P-ylides (phosphoranes)	183
References	189
<hr/>
Quinquevalent phosphorus acids	198
Piotr Balczewski and Joanna Wilk
1 Introduction	198
2 Phosphoric acids and their derivatives	199
3 Phosphonic acids and their derivatives	243
4 Phosphinic acids and their derivatives	305
5 Quinquevalent phosphorus acids and their derivatives as catalysts	314
Acknowledgements	317
References	317
<hr/>
Pentacoordinated and hexacoordinated compounds	332
Romana Pajkert and Gerd-Volker Röschenthaler
1 Introduction	332
2 Pentacoordinated phosphorus compounds	332
3 Hexacoordinated phosphorus compounds	341
References	348
<hr/>
Phosphazenes	349
Vadapalli Chandrasekhar and Amit Chakraborty
1 Introduction	349
2 Acyclic phosphazenes	349
3 Cyclophosphazenes	358
4 Polyphosphazenes and related polymers	366
References	372

---

Green synthetic approaches in organophosphorus chemistry: recent developments 377

Goutam Brahmachari

1 Introduction	377
2 Recent developments in green synthetic approaches in organophosphorus chemistry	378
3 Conclusions	385
Acknowledgements	386
References	386