Many people contributed to making the publication of Joe's memoir in book form a reality. We thank Jermeiy Matthews, acquisitions editor at the MIT Press, for his interest and sustained support in publishing the book. We owe a huge debt of gratitude to Ahmed Almheiri, a former student of Joe's, for his outstanding physics explanations and annotated references, which make the book accessible to so many more readers than it otherwise might have been. For his generous and eloquent foreword, we thank Andy Strominger. Photo credits and thanks go to the Breakthrough Prize Foundation, Caltech Big T, Nell Campbell, Randall Hagadorn, Craig Kunimoto, Stephen Parke, Maggie Sherriffs, Gary Smaby, Yoshio Yamagishi, and to Mark Bowick for identifying everyone in the large group photo. To all who have contributed moral support and willingness to "do anything" for Joe, we are eternally grateful, and especially to Stephen Shenker, David Gross, Lars Bildsten, Don Marolf, Gary Horowitz, Edward Witten, Bill Zajc, Roland Lee, Makoto Natsuume, and Lisa Stewart. We thank Haley Biermann at the MIT Press, who was so patient and
