Women diagnosed with ovarian cancer between 2004 and 2008 show that five-year relative survival rates are over 90% for early stage disease, but show a decrease to less than 10% for late stage disease. Most women (60%) are diagnosed with stage III or IV disease, with just about 30% diagnosed at Stage I.

Source: http://info.cancerresearchuk.org/cancerstats/types/ovary/survival/