Information for Contributors

Environmental Entomology is published in February, April, June, August, October, and December. The journal publishes reports on the interaction of insects with the biological, chemical, and physical aspects of their environment and is divided into the following sections: Forum; Population Ecology, Community and Economic Entomology; Insect-Syndromic Interactions; Biological Control-Weeds, Pollinator Ecology and Management; Plant-Insect Interactions; Behavior; Sampling, Pest Management; Chemical Ecology; Physiological Ecology; Molecular Ecology and Evolution; Transgenic Plants and Insects. In addition to research papers, Environmental Entomology publishes Letters to the Editor, interpretive articles in a Forum section, and Review Articles. The same guidelines apply to these as to research articles. For more detailed instructions concerning the preparation and submission of manuscripts, consult the instructions to Authors site at https://academic.oup.com/ee/page/General_Instructions.

All manuscripts are reviewed by scientists qualified to judge the validity of the research. Acceptance or rejection, however, is the decision of the subject editor. Acceptance of a manuscript is based solely on its scientific merit. Appeal of a rejected manuscript should be made to the Editorial Board, via the ESA director of publications. Accepted manuscripts are published approximately in the order they are received.

Manuscript Submission and Preparation. All manuscripts for the journal should be submitted electronically using the online review system, ScholarOne. Go to http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/ee. All authors submitting through ScholarOne for the first time are required to set up an account by filling in their contact information and determining their username and password. Once you have done so, please follow the instructions for submitting your manuscript online. Tables and figures should be uploaded as individual files that are separate from the main document. Authors can subsequently log in to ScholarOne and see the status of their manuscript(s) in their Author Centre. If you have questions, try using the online Help button. Or, you can email pub@entsoc.org or call 301-734-4131, ext. 3010. Submit your manuscript as an MS Word or LaTeX file with a page size of 8.5 x 11 inches. Type all double-spaced, with 1-inch margins, and do not justify text. Use the four Times (New) Roman (10 point). Use italics only to indicate scientific names, symbols for variables, and words that are defined. Use quotation marks for quoted material only. Use American English spelling throughout and follow Merriam-Webster's New College Dictionary, 11th ed. for guidance on spelling. Number pages consecutively, beginning with the title page. Note that ESA requires that line numbers be used on your submitted manuscript. Begin each of the following on a separate page and arrange in the following order: title page, abstract and key words (three to five words), text, acknowledgments, references cited, footnotes, tables, figure legends, and figures. Typeset all captions in 8 or 9 point, using the font Arial or Helvetica. Authors with questions concerning the preparation of artwork can refer to the Oxford Journals website at https://academic.oup.com/journals/pages/authors/figures or contact the publications office itself. Final lettering size should be 8 or 9 point, using the font Arial or Helvetica. Authors are asked to account for proportionate reduction or enlargement in the choice of lettering size, type style, and the format of the artwork itself. Figure resolution should be 300 pixels per inch and figures should be one or two columns wide (i.e., 82 or 171 mm). Separate parts of the same figure must be grouped together and arranged to use space efficiently. Whenever possible, it is best to avoid using a full page for a set of illustrations. That is, authors should attempt to have each figure appear separately from the other and should consider numbering illustrations as separate figures rather than as multiple parts of the same figure. Authors should indicate a preference for one- or two-column wide figures. Authors are also asked to account for proportionate reduction or enlargement in the choice of lettering size, type, and style, and the format of the artwork itself. Final lettering size should be at least 9 point, using the font Arial or Helvetica. Authors with questions concerning the preparation of artwork can refer to the Oxford Journals website at https://academic.oup.com/ee.

Style Conventions. When first mentioned, a plant or animal should include the full scientific name and the author of the botanical name unabbreviated, except for Linnaeus (L.) and Fabricius (F.). Use only common names approved by the Entomological Society of America (http://www.entsoc.org/epc/entcom/). Otherwise, the manuscript should conform to the guidelines established by the latest edition of the Council of Science Editors Style Manual.

Proofs. Page proofs are sent to authors after manuscripts are accepted. Extensive changes to proofs, except for printer and editorial errors and answers to copy-editor queries addressing style or format, will be charged to the author. Additional Charges. Editorial changes are assessed on all accepted manuscripts to cover some of the expenses of publishing. See the website below for current rates. Proofs (printed and electronic) are ordered at the time page proofs are returned. See the reprint order form for rates. Authors who are members of ESA at the time their article is published are exempt from page charges related to their article.
