

SEPM SHORT COURSE NOTES NO. 56

EVALUATING WATER-DEPTH VARIATION AND MAPPING DEPOSITIONAL FACIES ON GREAT BAHAMA BANK – A “FLAT-TOPPED” ISOLATED CARBONATE PLATFORM

by

Paul M. (Mitch) Harris

Chevron Energy Technology Company, Houston, Texas, U.S.A.

Samuel J. Purkis

National Coral Reef Institute, Nova Southeastern University,
Dania Beach, Florida, U.S.A.

James Ellis

Ellis GeoSpatial, Walnut Creek, California, U.S.A.

Copyright 2014 by SEPM Society for Sedimentary Geology • www.sepm.org

Digital ISBN 978-56576-333-3

March, 2014 • Tulsa, OK, USA

SEPM Short Course Notes # 56

Evaluating Water-Depth Variation and Mapping Depositional Facies on the Great Bahama Bank – a “Flat-Topped” Isolated Carbonate Platform

By

Paul M. (Mitch) Harris, Chevron Energy Technology Company, Houston, TX, USA

Sam J. Purkis, National Coral Reef Institute, Nova Southeastern University, Dania Beach, FL, USA

And

James Ellis, Ellis GeoSpatial, Walnut Creek, CA, USA

Copyright 2014 by

SEPM Society for Sedimentary Geology

www.sepm.org

March, 2014,

Tulsa, OK, USA

A Publication of
SEPM Society for Sedimentary Geology

This publication is available online, on CD/DVD or print from SEPM at www.sepm.org

Only the CD/DVD version contains the supplemental files discussed in the volume

Print ISBN 978-1-56576-332-6

Print version does not contain the additional digital files available on the CD/DVD version

Digital ISBN 978-56576-333-3

Digital online version does not contain the additional digital files on the CD/DVD version

© SEPM Society for Sedimentary Geology

4111 S. Darlington, Suite 100

Tulsa, OK, USA