OXFORD HEALTH PROMOTION
An International Journal

Chair of Editorial Board: Ilona Kickbusch, World Health Organisation, Copenhagen.

Health Promotion is designed to increase the visibility of health-promoting innovations from diverse sources such as education, employment, legislation, the media and industry. It will document public health action not only as organisational change, but as community development, spontaneous local activities, and social movements for health. The World Health Organisation is assisting in the preparation of this journal.

Articles appearing in Volume 2 include:

Hopes and worries of young people in three European countries (Austria, Finland, England)
Tytti Solantaus

Health Education perspectives in Latin America
Rina Alcalay

The Bamboo smoke screen: tobacco smoking in China
David Tomson and Angela Coulter

The International Journal of Epidemiology encourages communication amongst those engaged in the research, teaching and application of epidemiology throughout the world. It is concerned with the epidemiology of both infectious and non-infectious diseases, with research into health services and medical care, and with new methods, statistical or otherwise, for the analysis of data used by those who practise social and preventive medicine.

Articles appearing in Volume 17, 1988 include:

- Soft Tissue Sarcoma Mortality among Vietnam Veterans in Massachusetts 1972 to 1983
  Michael D Kogan and Richard W Clapp

- Risk Factors for HIV Infection in Drug Addicts from the Northeast of Italy
  S Franceschi, U Tirelli, E Vaccher, D Serraino, M Crovatto, P De Paoli, S Diodato, C La Vecchia, A Decarli and S Monfardini

- Men Who Do Not Drink: A Report from the British Regional Heart Study
  Goya Wannamethee and A G Shaper

- Medical Consequences of a Factory Closure: Illness and Disability in a Four-Year Follow-up Study
  Steinar Westin, Dag Norum and James J Schlesselman

- Chang-Ning Epidemiological Study of Children's Health: 1: Passive Smoking and Children's Respiratory Diseases

Instructions to authors

Papers for publication should be submitted to the Editors, Health Policy and Planning, A Journal on Health in Development, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, Keppel Street (Gower Street), London WC1E 7HT, UK. All papers should be written in English and should preferably be less than 5000 words in length. The manuscript should be accompanied by an assurance that the paper has not been published elsewhere nor submitted to another journal. The editors cannot enter into correspondence about papers considered unsuitable for publication and their decision will be final. Neither the editors nor the publishers accept responsibility for the views of authors expressed in their contributions. The editors reserve the right to make amendments to the papers submitted, although they will seek the authors' consent to any changes made.

Reprints
Authors of articles will be supplied free with 50 reprints and two copies of the journal in which their publication appears. Extra reprints can be obtained only in special circumstances on application to the journals department of OUP and a justification for extra reprints must be submitted with the original article.

Copyright
Copyright of articles is held by Oxford University Press, except where copyright already rests with the body under whose auspices the work reported was carried out. Authors may use their own material elsewhere provided acknowledgement is made to the Journal as the original place of publication.

Organization of manuscript
Two copies of the manuscript should be submitted. It should be typed with double spacing on A4 (30 cm × 21 cm) size paper, with a 2.5 cm left-hand margin. All pages must be numbered in sequence. The sections should be arranged in the following sequence, with each section starting on a new page: Title page showing title, short running title, authors' names and brief addresses. Brief biography of each author of not more than 150 words, including qualifications, position held and full address. Where there is more than one author, note which address should be used for reprint requests. Summary of not more than 300 words. Main text. Conclusions. Acknowledgements. References. Tables. List of captions for illustrations. Illustrations.

Illustrations
Illustrations should be lightly marked on the back with the figure number and the author's name and the top edge should be indicated. They should have neat, typeset labels. Original drawings may be submitted, although high quality glossy photographs or prints are preferable.

References
Referencing may be either by author/date or by numbers (Vancouver system), but the format chosen must be used consistently throughout the article. The style of the reference list varies between the two systems, but in both cases, the following details must be included in a reference to a journal article: the surnames and initials of all authors when six or less (when seven or more, list three and add et al), title of article, name of journal abbreviated according to Index Medicus style, year, volume, first and last page numbers. For books, names and initials of all authors, the full title, place of publication, publisher, year of publication and page number should be included. Examples of the style for the two systems are shown below.

Vancouver system
References should be numbered sequentially in the text, with a number being inserted above the line on each occasion a reference is cited, e.g. 'as confirmed by other studies'.

4 For more details of the Vancouver style see Br Med J 1982; 284: 1766-76.

Author/date system
In the text the author's name and the date of publication are quoted, e.g. 'as confirmed by Abrams (1969)' or 'as confirmed in another study (Abrams 1969)'.

Units
All measures should be reported in SI units, followed (where necessary) by the traditional units in parentheses. For general guidance on the International System of Units and some useful conversion factors, see 'The SI for the Health Professions' (WHO 1977). There are two exceptions; blood pressure should be expressed in mm Hg and haemoglobin in g/dl.

Change of address
Please notify both the publishers and the editors of any change of address. The editors' address is given above. The publishers' address is: Journals Production Department, Oxford University Press, Walton Street, Oxford OX2 6DP, United Kingdom.

Review of books
Books and monographs will be reviewed as space permits and may be sent to Health Policy and Planning, c/o Oxford University Press.

Important notes to authors
- It is the responsibility of the authors to obtain permission to quote material from copyright sources.
- The manuscripts will not be returned to authors following submission unless specifically requested.
- To avoid delays in the production of the journal, proofs will be sent to contributors for information only, and the editors will be responsible for checking, correcting and passing all proofs to press.
- Any amendments or corrections should be sent to the editors as soon as possible after being notified that an article has been accepted for publication.
