AJH Peer Review 2015

The review process is a fundamental aspect of the publication of scientific literature. Reviewers are second only to authors in the contribution to scientific knowledge, and their expertise, fairness and rigour ensure that what we publish in the American Journal of Hypertension will advance our understanding of the science of hypertension. We are thankful to all our reviewers who commit their busy time to ensuring the quality of the manuscripts that are published in the Journal, their efforts are highly appreciated.

Ernesto L. Schiffrin MD, PhD, Editor-in-Chief
