About the Cover

Digital art by Shaun Slifer, a founding member of the Justseeds Artists' Cooperative. Slifer, on his art:

I sketched out the first version of this icon one day after the Tree of Life Synagogue shooting in my home city of Pittsburgh, where I've worked to run the Justseeds office for years. This is a pictographic effort at combining complex feelings of anti-fascist rage with my deep belief in the need to work from a position of love. It is a combination of the Three Arrows/Drei Pfeile symbol—historically associated with the paramilitary Iron Front/Eiserne Front and carried into modern times as a continued symbol of militant anti-fascism—with a common heart outline.

Past SAA President Terry Baxter speaks of love and solidarity in the archives community in his presidential address "Lovers in a Dangerous Time: Archives, Archivists, and Community." Turn to page 7 to read it. Artwork courtesy of Shaun Slifer.
