studies are needed to explore whether gender differences in cognitive function decrease as gender equality in education increases.