Thanks to 1997 Reviewers

The continuing excellence of the Journal of Forestry depends on the dedication and expertise of our volunteer reviewers. Each year, many individual review manuscripts submitted to the Journal under both the peer-review and editorial feature categories. Their input regarding a paper's contribution to the profession, soundness of research, clarity, and general interest help ensure that the Journal meets the needs of its readers. The following individuals served as reviewers in 1997; they deserve recognition for their hard work. Bold type indicates those who served as Journal Editorial Board members. We apologize to any reviewers who were omitted inadvertently or because of publication deadlines.
