

Women and Geology:
Who Are We, Where Have We Come From,
and Where Are We Going?

edited by

Beth A. Johnson
Department of Geography and Geology
University of Wisconsin–Fox Valley
1478 Midway Road
Menasha, Wisconsin 54952, USA

THE GEOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF AMERICA®

Memoir 214

3300 Penrose Place, P.O. Box 9140 ■ Boulder, Colorado 80301-9140, USA

2018

Copyright © 2018, The Geological Society of America (GSA), Inc. All rights reserved. Copyright is not claimed on content prepared wholly by U.S. government employees within the scope of their employment. Individual scientists are hereby granted permission, without fees or further requests to GSA, to use a single figure, a single table, and/or a brief paragraph of text in other subsequent works and to make unlimited photocopies of items in this volume for noncommercial use in classrooms to further education and science. Permission is also granted to authors to post the abstracts only of their articles on their own or their organization's Web site providing that the posting cites the GSA publication in which the material appears and the citation includes the address line: "Geological Society of America, P.O. Box 9140, Boulder, CO 80301-9140 USA (<http://www.geosociety.org>)," and also providing that the abstract as posted is identical to that which appears in the GSA publication. In addition, an author has the right to use his or her article or a portion of the article in a thesis or dissertation without requesting permission from GSA, provided that the bibliographic citation and the GSA copyright credit line are given on the appropriate pages. For any other form of capture, reproduction, and/or distribution of any item in this volume by any means, contact Permissions, GSA, 3300 Penrose Place, P.O. Box 9140, Boulder, Colorado 80301-9140, USA; fax +1-303-357-1070; editing@geosociety.org. GSA provides this and other forums for the presentation of diverse opinions and positions by scientists worldwide, regardless of their race, citizenship, gender, religion, sexual orientation, or political viewpoint. Opinions presented in this publication do not reflect official positions of the Society.

Published by The Geological Society of America, Inc.
3300 Penrose Place, P.O. Box 9140, Boulder, Colorado 80301-9140, USA
www.geosociety.org

Printed in U.S.A.

GSA Books Science Editors: Richard A. Davis Jr. and Christian Koeberl

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data is available online.

ISBN 9780813712147 (cloth)
ISBN 9780813782140 (ebook)

Cover: Front: Top: (Left) Jill Schneiderman at Siccar Point, Scotland; photo taken by Meg Stewart. (Center) Beth A. Johnson at Isle Royale, 2017; photo taken by Tari Mattox. (Right) Carolyn Olson sampling a loess exposure on an exposed roadcut near Mt. Vernon, Indiana; photo taken by Robert V. Ruhe. Middle: (Left) Blair Schneider at Garden of the Gods, Colorado; photo taken by Nicholas Schneider. (Center) Robbie Gries at a wildcat wellsite in the San Juan sag, south central Colorado, August 1982; photo taken by Lynn Gries. (Right) Helen Eifert at Adirondack Park, New York; photo taken by Alexander K. Stewart. Bottom: (Left) Mindy Kimball leading a geology field course in Hawaii; photo taken by Marie Johnson. (Center) Joanne Kluessendorf at the Niagara Escarpment, High Cliff State Park, Wisconsin; photo taken by Donald G. Mikulic. (Right) Katherine Lewandowski at Godafoss waterfall, Iceland; photo taken by Mark Lewandowski.

Background: Raspberry Island, Isle Royale National Park, Michigan, 2017; photo taken by Beth A. Johnson.

Dedication

This book is dedicated to all the women in geology who have struggled not only to make a place for themselves, but for all the other women who followed. Specifically, it is dedicated to the memory of Dr. Joanne Kluessendorf (1949–2018), who dedicated her life to furthering our understanding of geology and sharing the wonders of the natural world with others. Her many honors include helping to support women in geoscience as an officer in the Association for Women Geoscientists, establishing five National Historic Landmarks in Wisconsin, and being elected a Fellow in the Geological Society of America. She was the director of the Weis Earth Science Museum in Menasha, Wisconsin, contributing author to this volume, a tireless geoscience educator, a valued mentor, and a dear friend. She worked to make a place in geology for others and we give her a place of honor here.

Beth A. Johnson
8 June 2018

Dr. Joanne Kluessendorf with a Dunkleosteus cast, Dec. 2017. Photo by Beth A. Johnson.

Contents

Introduction	vii
Beth A. Johnson
1. Beginning with mineralogy: Ellen Swallow Richards and earth system science	1
Jill S. Schneiderman
2. How female geologists were written out of history: The micropaleontology breakthrough	11
Robbie Rice Gries
3. Taboos, stowaways, and chief scientists: A brief history of women in oceanography	23
Katherine Lewandowski
4. Katherine Greacen Nelson: Advocate for the public appreciation of earth science	37
Joanne Kluessendorf and Donald G. Mikulic
5. Pioneers in Antarctic research: Lois Jones and her all-woman science team explore the geochemistry of the Dry Valleys	51
Katherine Lewandowski
6. Reflections on an interdisciplinary geoscience career	59
C. Olson
7. Hollywood representations of women in geology: Women geoscientists in film (1986–2016)	69
Beth A. Johnson
8. How we look and what we see: Twenty years of women in GSA Today	79
Mindy A. Kimball
9. Social media hashtags and campaigns showcasing female geoscientist selfies and stories	87
Laura Guertin
10. Progress of women in the geosciences: Insight from a small liberal arts university	95
Helen A. Eifert and Alexander K. Stewart
11. The Association for Women Geoscientists: Forty years of successes, struggles, and sisterhood	105
Blair Schneider, Lisa M. Tranel, and Mackenzie Cremeans
12. Building community to advance women in the geosciences through the Earth Science Women’s Network	121
Rebecca T. Barnes, Erika Marín-Spiotta, and Aisha R. Morris

